Board of Education

Alfred G. Amundsen, superintendent; Robert Willis; William McCrea, president; Kenneth Redmond, treasurer; Charles Wood, secretary; George Teale.

The Marlette Community School was organized in its present form in 1935. Only Mr. McCrea of the original five-member Board of Education remains as a member of the board. Of the other four members Mr. Redmond and Mr. Wood have each served six years, Mr. Teale four years, and Mr. Willis two years.

Marlette Community School

At the time that the school was re-organized in 1935, many people thought that it was too large for the number of pupils--575--at that time. But now with 1000 pupils, the building and playground are very inadequate. And with the present rate of increase in the future, it will become impossible to provide space in the present building very shortly. The three first grades are now being housed in the Methodist Church house, and the Kindergarten in the Cottage.

A simple line drawing of a satchel or bag. It has a rectangular body with a flap that folds over the top. The flap is secured by two vertical straps with buckles. In the center of the flap, there is a smaller rectangular pocket with a single horizontal strap and buckle. A long, thin strap is attached to the top of the bag, extending upwards and to the right.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

MEMORIES

Our class history is so dramatic and colorful that it resembles a play:

ACT I

Scene: Corridors, class.
Setting: Plain, showing signs of use

Time: September, 1948

The Class of 1952 parades onto the stage. Their timidity and curious mistakes furnish bright moments. The villain appears; he is called Study. His brother, Examination, nearly throws them for a loop at the end of the act, but by one last spurt of their tired brains, the cast, now known as FRESHMEN, win the battle. Prankster Initiation sneaks up on them, but they give him the slip. Outstanding in memory is the Hayloft Hop; they enjoy it more than the audience! Leading actors and actresses in this episode are: Margaret MacPherson, Paul Prowse, Lee Osborn, and Jean Willing.

ACT II

Scene and Setting: Same
Time: One year later

The cast is now known as sophomores, owing to an advance in rank. Now they have achieved a charm, an ease of manner, and a feeling of security that was much more elaborate, as is also the make-up used. Never-to-be-forgotten is the Sweetheart Roundup, an all-high dance at which Darla Harris, their own '52 Sweetheart, wins the original Sweetheart crown. They give an Initiation Banquet for the underclassmen who take the brunt of their Initiation attack. Leading the cast this year is a male quartette; Paul Prowse, Ron Forbes, Ted Fitch, and Bob Rudd. Climaxing this act is another struggle against Study and Examinations, but once again the class emerges victorious.

Curtain
Intermission

ACT III

Time: One year later than Act II
Again the same actors stagger into the same place, but they are so changed that each act seems like an entirely new play. They are now called juniors. The audience roars through "The Baby Sitter," (junior play), waltzes through the J-Hop to a Hawaiian theme, enjoys the good food at the Junior-Senior banquet, which practically breaks those money-mad juniors! Of course only the play cast, led by Jim Heussner, JoAnn Kelly, Doris Cargill, and David Boyne, and their faculty guides, Ross and Gibb, enjoys the all-day journey to Canada to visit historic landmarks. Before the curtain falls, there is the inevitable conflict with Exams again, but he is defeated quite badly, partly through his own brother, Study, who now helps them.

Curtain
Intermission

ACT IV

Time: 1951-1952

This finale displays more comedy than before; the entire scene seems to be viewed through rose-colored glasses. The whole fourth act is one continual round of pleasure for the cast and audience alike. The audience chills to "Ghost Wanted," the senior play; wades through snow to attend the Senior Prom; sits hushed while the seniors "skipped" on Skip Day; watches the fashionable Senior Tea; enjoys the Junior-Senior banquet at the expense of this year's juniors; travels by train to Washington and New York with sponsors Thompson and Boersma. David Boyne and actresses JoAnn Kelly, Jean Willing, and Mary Helen Mittlestat hold down leading roles. The play ends in a burst of glory, with flowers, music, congratulations--in short, graduation exercises; and they have the well-known and ever popular happy ending! Curtain
